This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE.

In 1756 a Royal Warrant was issued directing fifteen Regiments of Foot to raise a second Battalion,* and in 1758 these second Battalions were formed into separate Regiments, the senior half of the officers of each rank remaining with the old, and the juniors being posted to the new Regiment, a Colonel, Lieutenant-Colonel, and Chaplain being added to the latter to complete their establishment, which dated from the 25th June, 1758.† The Regiments thus raised were as follows:—

the senior Lieutenant, who commanded the Colonel's Company. In 1782 a change was made in the title of most Regiments by their receiving county titles with a view to encourage recruiting, the 65th Foot being made the "2nd Yorkshire, North Riding" Regiment.

In recognition of the distinguished services of the Regiment in India and Arabia a special Badge was conferred on them by George IV., in 1823, the following letter being addressed to the Officer Commanding :—

"HORSE GUARDS, 4th April, 1823.

"Sir,

"I have the honour to acquaint you, by direction of the Commander-in-Chief, that in consideration of the distinguished conduct of the 65th Regiment during the period of its services in India and Arabia, which has been represented through General the Marquis of Hastings, His Majesty has been pleased to approve of the Regiment bearing on its colours and appointments the figure of the Royal Tiger, with the word 'India' superscribed, and also the word 'Arabia' beneath the figure, and the number of the Regiment, to commemorate the services of the Regiment in that country.

"I have the honour, &c., &c.,

"(Signed) H. TORRENS,

"Adjutant-General."

By General Order, No. 60, dated 4th June, 1870, the Regiment was authorized to bear the words "New Zealand" on the Colours to commemorate their services during the war in that country; and by General Order, No. 10, dated January, 1885, they became entitled to add the words "Egypt, 1884," for their services in the Soudan in the spring of that year. The above brief outline of the formation of the Regiment and the distinctions they have won must suffice here, a complete history in detail being reserved for a future volume.

To compile a complete Roll of the Officers of a Regiment is no easy task, but one which involves long and tedious research far out of all proportion to the results obtained; it is perhaps owing to this fact that so few works of this kind, even in an incomplete form, have been published. Some idea of the magnitude of the undertaking may be gathered from the number of volumes which have to be consulted, and when it is remembered that each of the officers has to be traced year by year, for the whole of his service, through almost every volume. The London Gazette from 1756 to 1884 consists of 373 volumes, and until 1785 has no index; the Annual Army Lists from 1756 to 1868, when they were discontinued, comprise 113 volumes; and the Monthly Army List from 1814 to 1884, 852 volumes; in all upwards of 1,300 volumes. In the Annual Lists there is no index previous to 1765, nor to Half Pay Officers until 1789. No notice is taken of casualties before 1811, and it is not until 1880 that dates of deaths or resignations are given. Since the present Quarterly Army List was first published in 1880, a great improvement has taken place, and these volumes now leave little to be desired, all names and dates being given in full. Unfortunately there is a gap between 1868-1880 when no Official Annual Lists were published.

In compiling this Roll no trouble has been spared to render it complete and reliable in every detail, the date of birth, death, and war services being given wherever possible to ascertain, an amount of detail which has never before been attempted in any similar publication. The services of every officer are also traced in any other Regiments in which he may have served before joining or after leaving the 65th Regiment, from first to last. The various ways of spelling the names of officers causes endless trouble, especially during the first sixty or seventy years. Formerly officers were often Gazetted and remained in the Army List for years without christian names or even initials, thereby rendering the task of identification almost impossible. In these cases recourse has been had to the original Pay Lists and Muster Rolls in the Public Record Office, but even then not always with success. The careless manner in which appointments were formerly made may be gathered from the following announcement in the London Gazette, dated War Office, January 10th, 1767 :—"Whereas many mistakes and inconveniences have arisen from the want of an authentic publication of the Commissions granted to Officers in His Majesty's Army, notice is hereby given, that the said Commissions shall, for the future, be regularly published in the London Gazette."

One striking fact is brought to light by this Roll—which is probably but a fair example of all others—viz., the great number of changes which take place by officers exchanging to or from other Regiments, so that out of 849 Officers contained in this Roll only about 321 have served all their time in the Battalion (not counting service in the Militia, Indian Staff Corps, in the ranks, or on Half Pay), the remaining 528 having served in from one, to six or seven other Regiments!

Of the sixteen full Colonels, not one had any previous service in the Battalion on being appointed Colonel; and only seven officers have served all their time in the Battalion and risen from Ensign to Lieutenant-Colonel.

In my endeavour to render this Roll not only complete, but correct, I have to thank several of the officers, both past and present, for their assistance, but especially Colonel Lionel Smith Warren, commanding the 51st and 65th Regimental Districts, for his kindness in allowing me to have access to all the Regimental Records, and also for correcting and pointing out the errors in the proof sheets, which are almost inseparable from a work dealing with such a large number of names and dates as the present volume contains. In conclusion, I would ask for indulgence for any mistakes which have been overlooked, and only hope that these pages, although they of necessity contain but an imperfect record of the various services of many distinguished officers, may prove both useful and interesting to all those who take a pride in the old 65th Regiment.

THE HALLAMSHIRE REGIMENT.

As it may be interesting to record how the Regiment obtained its present title, the following details will perhaps not be considered out of place.

Early in March, 1881, a Report was presented to Parliament giving the proposed titles for the new Territorial Regiments, from which it appeared that the 65th and 84th Regiments, were to be linked together and styled "The Hallamshire Regiment." *

The following Circular letter was at once issued to the officers of the Regiments concerned, by an officer of the (now) 3rd Battalion, and although the time was short a large number of replies were received, showing an overwhelming majority in favour of retaining the old title of the 84th, or "York and Lancaster" Regiment, not one vote being recorded for "The Hallamshire Regiment."

MEMORANDUM.

"THE HALLAMSHIRE REGIMENT."

"The Committee on Territorial Regiments have suggested the above title for one of the new Territorial Regiments, to be composed of the present—

"65th (2nd Yorkshire, North Riding) Regiment,
"84th (York and Lancaster) Regiment,
"3rd West York Light Infantry Militia,
Ditto ditto 2nd Battalion.

"Since the standing Army was first established in 1660, by Charles II., no reforms on so large a scale and of so important a character have been attempted as the proposed organisation involves, and all officers must feel that, while there is yet time, an effort should be made to obtain for our Regiments some more suitable designation than the one proposed.

* Parliamentary Paper, No. [C. 2793] dated War Office, 25th Feb., 1881.

"It is most desirable that some title should be adopted which will retain the association with the county to which they may justly claim to be entitled, on the following grounds:—

"1. The 65th and 84th are both Yorkshire Regiments, and the 3rd West York Light Infantry is not only one of the oldest in the kingdom, having been raised in 1759, but is also the senior of all Regiments of Infantry Militia.

"2. The 14th, on which the title of "The West Yorkshire Regiment" has been conferred, is a Buckinghamshire Regiment, and the 4th West York Militia, which forms the 3rd and 4th Battalions, is one of the junior Militia Regiments in the United Kingdom, having been raised in 1853. [The Militia Committee (Colonel Stanley's) in 1877 proposed that the 65th, 84th, and 3rd West York should be styled the 'Royal West York.']

"3. The 25th King's Own Borderers, which it is proposed to call the 'York Regiment,' is a Scotch Regiment, and has no connection with Yorkshire; and the 5th West York Militia, which is to form the 3rd and 4th Battalions, was raised at the same period as the 4th West York.

"4. Hallamshire is an ancient Saxon Manor, the name of which is almost unknown out of Yorkshire; it consists of a district around Sheffield, of which borough it forms part. It contains the townships of Upper and Nether Hallam, and at the census in 1871 numbered about 34,000 inhabitants.

"It will thus be seen that few Regiments have a stronger claim than ours to a county title, such as every other Regiment has, with the exception of a few which represent well-known cities, as London, Manchester, and Dublin.

"Some suitable title for our Regiment could easily be found even without disturbing existing arrangements of other Regiments, and which would at the same time identify the Regiment with the county, which the word 'Hallamshire' entirely fails to do.

"The title of 'Hallamshire' has for a long time been appropriated by the 2nd West York Rifle Volunteer Corps, which is generally known as the 'Hallamshire Rifles.'

"The following titles are suggested :—

"1. The York and Lancaster Light Infantry.
"2. The York and Lancaster Regiment.
"3. The York and Lancaster Rangers.
"4. The York Rangers.

"The first alternative comprises more or less the present designation of all three Regiments, viz.: 65th, 84th, and 3rd West York Light Infantry. All the above three Regiments are equally interested in the future name of the Regiment in which they are to be more or less amalgamated.

"In the second title proposed, the prefix 'Hallamshire' is simply omitted, and the old title of the 84th retained.

"With regard to the last of these titles it may be remarked that this title has been borne before. The 'York Rangers' were raised in 1803, were shortly after made the 'Royal York Rangers,' and were disbanded in 1819. There was also a Regiment of 'York Chasseurs' from 1814 to 1819. At the present time there is no Regiment bearing the title of 'Rangers,' although at the beginning of this century it was a favourite title, and borne by several corps; but there is a Regiment of 'Foresters,' and several 'Fusiliers,' 'Borderers,' and 'Light Infantry,' &c.

"It is therefore hoped that all officers will join in the endeavour to obtain a more suitable name for their new Regiment.

"With this object in view, officers are requested to sign the accompanying form, stating the title (or any other) which they prefer, so that the necessary steps may be taken to lay the subject before the Secretary of State for War without delay. No liability or responsibility is incurred by signing this paper, which is issued for the sole purpose of obtaining the opinion of the majority of the officers of the Regiments concerned, and it will be treated as strictly confidential."

In response to this appeal 64 replies were received, the votes recorded being as follows:—

PROPOSED TITLE.	No. of Votes.
York and Lancaster Regiment	42*
York and Lancaster Light Infantry... ...	14
Yorkshire Fusiliers	4
York and Lancaster Rangers	1
York Rangers	1
The South Yorkshire Regiment	1
Royal Yorkshire Light Infantry	1
The Hallamshire Regiment	0
Total	64

* Of this number 8 voted for "Fusiliers," 2 for "Yorkshire Regiment," and 1 for "York Rangers," as an alternative.

The number of votes received from each Battalion and Depôt were as follows:—

65th (2nd Yorkshire, North Riding) Regiment	14
Depôt 65th	3
84th (York and Lancaster) Regiment ...	21
Depôt 84th	7
3rd West York Light Infantry Militia ...	19
	64

By General Order No. 41, dated May 1st, 1881 (specially issued on the 11th April), the title of the Regiment was changed from "The Hallamshire" to "The York and Lancaster" Regiment.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

THE TIMES.—"One of the great attractions of this work is a large number of illustrations, including plans of the Artillery fields, and the neighbourhood at different times. No praise, indeed, can be too high for the pains which Captain Raikes has taken to render interesting his very complete record of the Honourable Artillery Company. . . . It is well worth reading, and is a mine from which the general historian will be able to extract much."

THE MORNING POST.—"It must be again said that this book is one of high importance; the history of the Honourable Artillery Company is to some extent the history of the nation, and the author who so efficiently places it before us deserves the thanks which belong to a national benefactor."

THE DAILY NEWS.—"The diligence with which Captain Raikes has gathered together materials from printed books and papers, public records, and manuscripts, both in national and private collections, is apparent, not only in his extensive list of authorities, but in the substantial fruits of his researches. He has written and compiled a work of considerable historical interest, and one which is full of entertainment, from its abundant tokens of old manners among the citizens of London."

THE STANDARD.—"The Honourable Artillery Company is entitled to rank among the most ancient institutions of London, and its records form an interesting part of the history of the Metropolis for several hundred years past. . . . The Members of the Company are to be congratulated on possessing such an exhaustive history of their famous old corps as the one which Captain Raikes has now completed for them."

THE DAILY CHRONICLE.—"Immense labour must have been taken to secure so clear a chronological arrangement of the facts, and while of special interest to Military men, the history will also be found a storehouse of information for the more general reader. . . . Captain Raikes, as we have said, has shown indefatigable industry and sound discretion, as well as marked ability, in the compilation of these two massive volumes, the attractions of which are increased by the introduction of a large number of portraits and some valuable old maps and plans."

THE SCOTSMAN.—"Such a treasury has been erected by Captain Raikes in this history of the Honourable Artillery Company. . . . Not the least interesting feature of the book is the large number of illustrations it contains—plans of the ground at different periods, photographic views of the armoury and other buildings, and portraits—most of them beautifully executed. . . . Is a monument to the industry of its author, and is in every way worthy of the important subject of which it treats."

THE GLOBE.—"Those who read the author's previous book will be prepared to hear that the present one is a monument of painstaking industry. . . . It is the author's fashion—and a right good one too—to do his work thoroughly while he is about it; and the present volume certainly bears marks of thoroughness in every page. . . . The illustrations, which have been produced by photography, generally from old wood-cuts and engravings, are admirable in every way."

PALL MALL GAZETTE.—"Captain Raikes has evidently compiled this history with great care, and he states all his sources of information. The old plans, portraits and documents are mostly very well reproduced, and Antiquarians and Volunteers, and especially present and past members of the H. A. C., will be glad to see this history of the famous old Company."

THE OBSERVER.—"It promises to be as complete a regimental history as we can remember to have seen. It has undoubtedly been a labour of love to the author, who has before now displayed great aptitude as a regimental historian; but we confess we were surprised at the amount of information he has been able to get together for the present work. The illustrations are very numerous and good."

SATURDAY REVIEW.—"Captain Raikes has condensed the matter of fourteen thousand pages of minutes. He has examined many hundreds of manuscript volumes in which are recorded the proceedings of the Court of Aldermen, Common Council, and Lieutenancy. He has spared no labour, and the publishers have spared no illustrations. The result is a history of which the second and last volume has now appeared, and of which the London Artillerymen may well be proud."

THE ACADEMY.—"This book deserves a fuller notice than we can spare for it. . . . Both in his methods of investigation and in the arrangements of his results, our author deserves high praise. He unites the enthusiasm of a military officer to the industry of a professional historian. . . . To some extent he will reap his own reward, in the performance of such conscientious work, which may well serve as a model to all regimental chroniclers."

NOTES AND QUERIES.—"Captain Raikes' volumes are complete with nearly one hundred illustrations, some of them of considerable topographical interest. . . . The Honourable Artillery Company may be congratulated on having found so capable a chronicler."

THE RELIQUARY.—"We can honestly say that out of all the military histories that have come before us, none has excelled—nay, even equalled this in exhaustiveness, reliableness, and masterly treatment, and assuredly none in interest and value. . . . It may well be taken as a model for others to copy from."

THE ANTIQUARY.—"In two large octavo volumes Captain Raikes has amassed together a vast amount of information concerning the above famous corps. . . . Within the brief space at our command, it will be impossible to give even a bare summary of the information which Captain Raikes has brought together concerning the annals of the Artillery Company."

VANITY FAIR.—"This beautiful volume is the fruit of much labour and research."

THE WORLD.—"Captain G. A. Raikes' first instalment of his History of the Honourable Artillery Company is very well put together, is full of interesting information about the London Trained Bands, and is not, we should imagine, without some hints likely to be practically useful to the volunteers of our own day. In the second volume Captain Raikes brings the record to the present day in five hundred pages, which contains a vast amount of material. . . . The complete work being a fitting tribute to the importance of the great traditionary civic regiment."

THE WHITEHALL REVIEW.—"Even those Radicals who may object to the continued existence of a Military body which flourishes upon its own property and exists by the sole authority of the Crown, will admit that the History of the Honourable Artillery Company is in a very particular sense the history of the last two centuries of London life, and that Captain Raikes has done a real historical service by producing the remarkably handsome and admirably illustrated work which Messrs. Bentley have just completed."

THE PICTORIAL WORLD.—"In taking leave of this singularly interesting and instructive work, which is indeed a monument of labour, we are fain to express our admiration of the way in which Captain Raikes has carried out his arduous undertaking."

THE FIELD.—"We have here two handsome volumes, elaborately illustrated, giving in the fullest detail the history of a Corps which claims to be 'the most ancient Military body in the British Empire, if not in the world.' . . . But upon examination of the volumes, it is probable that the smile with which they might well be regarded in the first instance may give place to a good deal of respect, both for the work which has been taken in hand, and the manner in which it has been done."

SUNDAY TIMES.—"A real monument of human industry and capacity for arrangement, the completed work does the highest credit to its author and should find a place in every public library and on the shelves of all who are interested in the subject on which it supplies direct or collateral information."

THE COURT CIRCULAR.—"Every one who takes any interest in the Honourable Artillery Company must be grateful to Captain Raikes for the labour and industrious research with which he has compiled this history. We could almost regret, indeed, that an historian who displays so exceptional an ability and aptitude for the work he takes in hand, had not devoted himself to a task of more general utility; but the public loss is the special gain of the Artillery Company."

THE CITY PRESS.—"The two volumes promise to be as complete a history of this famous Company as could be possibly be produced. . . . A work involving enormous labour."

THE CITIZEN.—"The first volume of Captain Raikes' History of the Honourable Artillery Company will, it may be hoped, soon be followed by the second. . . . The maps, plans, portraits, and other illustrations which adorn this large and handsome volume, are of themselves exceedingly valuable; but they are no more than necessary adornments of a work which is the result of such assiduous research."

OXFORD UNIVERSITY HERALD.—"It is almost impossible to speak in terms of too high praise regarding the industry and accuracy represented in the work which Captain Raikes has just brought to a conclusion. . . . All who are connected with the Company may refer to it for information on the minutest details, and it will also be of permanent value to the historian and antiquarian."

THE GUARDIAN.—"These two goodly volumes not merely contain an interesting history of the oldest volunteer corps in England—perhaps in Europe—and the oldest of all corps, regular and auxiliary, which form part of the military forces of the Kingdom, but are also a mine of curious antiquarian information of the most diverse kind."

THE YORKSHIRE POST.—"A mere glance at the summary of authorities consulted in the compilation of this book affords sufficient proof that the author has spared no pains to accomplish the purpose aimed at. . . . It is, however, doing only an act of simple justice to Captain Raikes, to express our hearty approval both of the matter and the style of the present portion of the important task he has undertaken."

THE LEEDS MERCURY.—"The most exacting of military critics cannot fail to be satisfied with the style in which Captain Raikes has presented the result of his extensive researches, whilst the general public will none the less find much interesting information in this bulky but handsome volume."

THE YORKSHIRE GAZETTE.—"The work already accomplished by Captain Raikes is a monument of his perseverance and an emblem of his industry. The volume is brought out in the best style of typography, and with its portly proportions and elegant binding forms a most attractive book."

THE IRISH TIMES.—"The most interesting and valuable military work which the present season has produced is, undoubtedly, Captain Raikes' History of the Honourable Artillery Company of London. . . . The work is splendidly got up, and is a very marvel of research."

THE BOSTON POST (U.S.).—"The first volume of the above work—in style and workmanship a thoroughly English book, and worthy of the entertaining subject to which it is devoted. . . . The work is very thoroughly done in every particular."

THE BOSTON JOURNAL (U.S.).—"Its publication has been looked forward to with great interest in America . . . from the fact that the author includes within the scope of his work the Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of Boston. Captain Raikes' history goes very fully, and with detail, into the annals of both organizations, and must be read with great interest among military men."

HISTORICAL AND GENEALOGICAL REGISTER, BOSTON (U.S.).—"The volume shows much research, and gives much insight into the history of military organizations in England."

NAVAL AND MILITARY GAZETTE.—"In this volume we have a most minute and painstaking history of the most ancient military body in the British Empire. The labour in compiling it must have been immense, for the authorities consulted are almost innumerable; but the author is to be congratulated on the result."

ARMY AND NAVY GAZETTE.—"Some very curious facts relative to this ancient corps may be learnt from a perusal of Captain Raikes' comprehensive volume. . . . Although, from its nature, the work may not be as generally appreciated as it deserves, there is an abundance of matter collected together, which cannot fail to interest even the casual reader."

THE BROAD ARROW.—"In this work we have the history of the most ancient military body or corps in the British Empire, if not in the world. . . . Captain Raikes may be congratulated on having produced a work which will not only be read with profit by the historical student, but with pleasure by all those who have ever been connected with this famous corps."

THE VOLUNTEER SERVICE GAZETTE.—"Those who have read the interesting account of the Third West York Militia, published a year or two ago by the same author, will be prepared to find that Captain Raikes has done his work thoroughly. Indeed, we have seldom met with a more complete or conscientious historical monograph than that contained in the volume before us. . . . It only remains to say that the book is made as complete as we believe it is possible for a book to be. . . . So long as a copy of it exists, no one else will ever be the historian of the H.A.C. He can at best only give his readers a continuation of 'Raikes.'"

THE WELLINGTON GAZETTE.—"We have had occasion, in reviewing a former work of the Author, Captain Raikes, to speak of the zealous research with which he pursues his object. . . . The preface of this admirable book is in itself an interesting history of the distinguished Regiment of which it treats, while in the body of the work is a mass of most readable matter, which renders it not only a history of the Honourable Artillery Company, but also of England during the last 300 years."

THE ARMY AND NAVY MAGAZINE.—"These Records abound with matter interesting not only to the soldier, but to the general student of history."

JOURNAL OF THE ROYAL UNITED SERVICE INSTITUTION.—"This volume is full of interest, and is plentifully furnished with excellent maps and illustrations."

TRANSACTIONS OF THE BRISTOL AND GLOUCESTERSHIRE ARCHÆOLOGICAL SOCIETY.—"The whole work is replete with curious and valuable information not elsewhere to be found. . . . The vast mass of material which the author's diligence has accumulated from every available source is methodically arranged in a clear chronological order, and the work, in all its details, reflects the highest credit, both upon the author and the publishers."

Opinions of the Press.

JOURNAL OF THE ROYAL UNITED SERVICE INSTITUTION.—"Captain Raikes deserves the gratitude of all connected with the Third West York for the enormous amount of labour and time which he must have expended in compiling the records of the regiment."

BULLETIN DE LA RÉUNION DES OFFICIERS, Paris.—"Captain Raikes has brought out in London an extremely interesting history of the regiment to which he belongs."

REVUE BELGE MILITAIRES.—"One does not know what most to admire in this beautiful publication, the laborious work which it has entailed on the author, or the pains which the publishers have taken to make it a veritable typographical monument."

MILITAIR-LITERATUR-ZEITUNG, Berlin.—"The historical records now before us contain not only the history of the First Regiment of Militia (Third West York), but also a very considerable contribution to the general history of the Militia, and on this account they acquire a special interest for Continental readers, and amply justify a thorough discussion of their very valuable contents."

ORGAN DER MILITAR WISSENSCHAFTLICHEN VEREINE, Vienna.—"This regimental history is got up in that costly style which in England is usual in bringing out books of this comprehensive character. The 'Records,' as the author modestly calls his work, are enriched with beautiful illustrations."

THE ARMY AND NAVY GAZETTE.—"That Captain Raikes should have been able to mass together such an amount of information is certainly astonishing, and, though little opportunity offered for the author to render his volume one of great literary merit, he has handled his subject and strung together his 'dry facts' in a manner which commends his history to the notice of military readers. . . . It is by far the best book of its class we ever remember to have seen."

THE BROAD ARROW.—"The Historical Records of the First Regiment of Militia are very readable and interesting, not only to Yorkshiremen and Militiamen, but to the Service as a whole, and to the general reader. . . . The compilation has evidently been a work of great labour, and that labour has been a labour of love."

NAVAL AND MILITARY GAZETTE.—"These records give evidence of an immense amount of labour and research, and may be regarded, we think, as exhaustive and complete. . . . The appendices alone are a monument of careful labour in the collection of valuable and interesting statistics bearing on the Militia Service."

THE UNITED SERVICE GAZETTE.—". . . This service Captain Raikes has rendered by the preparation of his valuable records, which must have cost him an amount of care and labour which only the true zeal and spirit of the soldier could have enabled him to bear."

THE VOLUNTEER REVIEW, Ottawa, Canada.—"We cannot compliment Captain Raikes too much on the very valnable records he has produced."

THE ATHENÆUM.—"Captain Raikes has done well in publishing the records of his regiment, for, as he observes in the Preface, they have 'a beneficial effect in maintaining that esprit de corps without which a regiment loses half its value.' . . . In the Appendix, all particulars relating to statutes affecting the volunteering of men from the Militia to the regular Army are given, and these statutes are well worth studying at the present time. Indeed, the whole book is worth reading, for it has been most carefully compiled, and may, we believe, be looked upon as thoroughly accurate."

THE SPECTATOR.—"The positive interest of the book is chiefly of a local character, though the valuable appendices which Captain Raikes has constructed with such infinite pains have something more."

THE GLOBE.—"Captain Raikes has compiled a history which cannot fail to be of great interest, not only to the present members of the regiment, but to Yorkshiremen in general. . . . The book thus forms a sort of supplement to the county history, as well as a trustworthy record of the services performed in one of the oldest Militia corps in England."

PUBLIC OPINION.—"With great care and research our author has dived into such records as are in existence, and, meagre though the materials be, a valuable and interesting historical narrative has resulted from his labours."

THE YORK HERALD.—"By means of this interesting and carefully-compiled volume, all persons who care to understand what the Militia has been, as a whole, will be enabled to study its beginning and its development, and the services it has rendered in times past. . . . He has spared no research and industry, and the result is a bulky volume of great interest and permanent value."

THE YORKSHIRE POST.—"Captain Raikes is very much to be complimented in regard to the diligence and labour bestowed in gathering together, from such scattered resources as were at his command, so much interesting information as is here presented of the history of the Third West York Light Infantry."

THE YORKSHIRE GAZETTE.—"We have given a very brief glance of this excellent work by Captain Raikes. To Yorkshiremen it will be of great value, presenting throughout its pages an immense source of information, wrought together in a masterly manner, and converting materials, which to a civilian's mind would be very dry and unreadable, into a pleasant and instructive book."

THE LEEDS MERCURY.—"We have little doubt this volume will be read with much eagerness by all who are interested in the 'Old Constitutional Force,' and that it will also serve the author's purpose in maintaining that esprit de corps, without which a regiment loses half its value.'"

THE COURT JOURNAL.—"He has supplied its history with a fulness of detail which leaves nothing to be desired."

THE YORKSHIRE TELEGRAPH.—"This is a valuable contribution to military literature. . . . As complete a record as could well be imagined; and notwithstanding that Captain Raikes hints in his preface that the records of the regiment have been kept better than is generally the case, yet his labour in putting them into a readable form, as he has done, must have been one of great magnitude."

THE DONCASTER CHRONICLE.—"Nobody can look at the book without being struck by the enormous labour and the studious pains bestowed upon its production."

THE DONCASTER GAZETTE.—"The result of his labour leaves nothing to be desired, and the author is to be complimented on the highly praiseworthy manner in which he has given a full and complete review of the past."

THE EASTERN MORNING NEWS.—"With the changes and movements thus indicated, the author has found no difficulty in making his history of the regiment very interesting, and at the same time contributed a valuable addition to the history of the country during the last century."

THE TIMES OF INDIA.—"An immense mass of information is here presented to us, not only about the 3rd West York, but also about the Militia generally."
